Forecast For The United Kingdom
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 0400 on Sunday 18 Apr 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
Many areas fine, still some frost overnight. Northwest UK cloudier.

Today:
Parts of northwest UK cloudy with occasional rain or drizzle. Elsewhere a frosty start for many inland areas, but then plenty of sunshine and light winds. This helping temperatures bounce back, and it should feel pleasantly warm by afternoon.

Tonight:
Drizzle in the northwest should ease, though probably enough cloud to prevent frost. Further east and south another cold night, with fog likely in parts of eastern England later.

Monday:
Fog in the east lifting, many parts fine and quite sunny. Temperatures recovering, most areas feeling warm by afternoon. Northern Ireland and western Scotland, cloudier with rain in places later.

Outlook for Tuesday to Thursday:
Rain in the northwest moves southeast and eases Tuesday. Most places fine and dry after this, although some showers are likely in the far northeast. Cold overnight with rural frost.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.